

A press conference was apparently held today where Marvel Studios officials further confirmed Ohio's NASA Plum Brook Center's Space Power Facility doubling for a "S.H.I.E.L.D Research Facility" in The Avengers, but also that Jeremy Renner's 'Hawkeye' will film scenes alongside Samuel L. Jackson's 'Nick Fury'. Jeremy Latcham, co-producer of the movie for Marvel Studios, said they would wrap up the week's worth of filming at Plum Brook today and move to a week of filming on East Ninth Street and other locations in Cleveland on Monday. He said the scenes at Plum Brook have used Renner, Samuel L. Jackson (as SHIELD head Nick Fury) and other actors playing SHIELD agents. In the movie, NASA will be said to be cooperating with SHIELD, Marvel's superspy agency that created The Avengers. Latcham said several of the stars and crew have gone to Put-in-Bay in their free time and many plan to get to Cedar Point. He
