

Joe Johnston was recently promoting his upcoming movie Captain America: The First Avenger, when he was asked about his mentor George Lucas and in a surprise answer he said that he has pitched Lucas on a movie about his famed bounty hunter Boba Fett. Reports Screen Rant: Towards the end of our conversation I asked Johnston if his former boss and mentor, George Lucas, had seen the film. The director gave us this somewhat surprising and thoroughly intriguing response: "You know if he wants to see it, I would show it to him. I'm trying to get George to make a feature based on Boba Fett." When asked if he would direct the film Johnston said simply, "I would like to, it would be a lot of fun." Johnston began his career as a story board artist for Lucas. He served as a visual effects art director on both The Empire Strikes Back and

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JakeLester/news/?a=41946&t=Joe Johnston Trying To Get George Lucas To Do A Boba Fett Movie