

Superhero Hype caught up with Chronicle director Josh Trank while he was doing press for the film and asked him about the rumors floating around that he was the front runner for the new Fantastic Four reboot. Like in his previous interview Trank remained coy about the rumor saying that people know just as much as he does and that he did see the leak online. He also went on to state that he is focused on getting Chronicle finished up right now and reiterated that he has some original ideas that he is working on. Said Trank, "I know as much as you guys know. I'm totally serious. I know as much as you. I saw that leak online and I was like, 'Um, okay, I'm trying to finish Chronicle right now.' This is weird. There's nothing to say, 'Chronicle' is exactly the kind of superhero movie that I wanted
