

In a lengthy chat with the press, Marvel's The Avengers director Joss Whedon has shared his thoughts on each of the main cast members in the superhero ensemble as well as revealing what it was like to receive insight from both Iron Man and Thor directors Jon Favreau and Kenneth Branagh. Commenting on what makes each of the actors right for their respective roles, be sure to share your thoughts on what he has to say in the usual place. "One of the big things that made me jump on board was the casting. Robert Downey Jr., Chris Hemsworth, Scarlett Johansson, Chris Evans and Samuel L. Jackson were already on board. These are all actors who audiences got to see in movies of their own. In 'Marvel's The Avengers,' they get to see them interact with each other. Everyone is so good that this film is going to be unbearable to
