

We have seen couple of concept art images Vin Diesel shared via his Facebook page for RIDDICK, with the last one featuring our first look at the new Necro-armor design. It has also been revealed that the production has been shut down due to money problems. Now, according to Bloody-Disgusting, some new roles have been offered. More below... "We're being told that offers were made to Andreas Apergis, Katee Sackhoff (White Noise 2: The Light, Growl, The Haunting in Georgia), Bokeem Woodbine (Total Recall, Devil) and WWE wrestler Dave Bautista (The Scorpion King 3: Battle for Redemption). Apergis would play "Krone", commander of the dark theocracy. Sackhoff would play "Dahl", a Nordic merc tracking Riddick." David Twohy is directing the new film, with Vin Diesel and Karl Urban set to reprise their roles. RIDDICK still has no release date. Betrayed by his own kind and left for dead on a desolate planet, Riddick
