

Variety report that Katee Sackhoff is officially the second name to sign on to star in the upcoming female take on Lionsgate's The Expendables. Sackhoff - best known for her brilliant turn as Kara 'Starbuck' Thrace in the Battlestar Galactica reboot - joins the previously announced Gina Carano, who will headline the flick. "If you spend five minutes with Katee it becomes blatantly obvious that she would pwn (sic) most male action stars," said Producer Adi Shankar about the casting. Sackhoff has a whole heap of projects in the pipeline, including Universal's untitled Chronicles of Riddick sequel, The Haunting in Georgia, Sexy Evil Genius, and Oculus.

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrrants/news/?a=68256>