

Mathew Vaughn has become something of a talking point to say the least here on CBM. His honest, and outspoken(cocky?) attitude have won him many fans, but also the ire of some who believe that he might be TOO interested in doing his own thing while not being faithful enough to the comics. Anyway, whichever side of the argument you come down on, to deny that the man is a talented and exciting director would be folly. While chatting to LA Times' Hero Complex, Kevin Bacon speaks about what it was like working with the director.. “He’s not gentle in the way he directs, to say the least. Matthew would sit by the monitor and shout something that’s borderline insulting. But every time he said something — or screamed something — it was right on the mark.” “He’s not like a ball coach, he’s not talking all the time, I could shoot an

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrrants/news/?a=38061&t=Kevin\_Bacon\_Gives\_Us\_An\_Insight\_Into\_Matthew\_Vaughns\_Directorial\_Style