

As you can see, Feige is on a whirlwind press tour for The Avengers and is being asked all manner of questions from inquisitive journalists. Fresh of giving an update on Guardians of the Galaxy, Feige spoke to The Huffington Post about the 2014 Captain America sequel amongst a few other topics. QUESTION: If you could poach one character from DC, which one would it be? FEIGE: Heh, well ... I don't know, exactly. The obvious answer is Batman. QUESTION: But I get the feeling you like some of the secondary characters. FEIGE: I'm not going to name any particular one, but I will say there are times when -- and I'm going back years and years -- when I was very jealous of some of the Vertigo titles. There was some neat stuff going on. And some obscure stuff that could be interesting. QUESTION: Captain America always has a sidekick. In the next "Captain America" movie,

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=57859>