

Some fans were a bit disappointed with Feige's comments regarding another movie outing for The Incredible Hulk. The character has already appeared twice in solo movies, both very different incarnations of the character and very different films overall. Personally I thought both were very good (in totally different ways), but neither one made a lot of cash. Now The Hulk is said to be one of the best things in The Avengers , and The Huffington post put the question to Feige once again: Will The Hulk get another shot at smashing the blocks in his own movie? "Well, no," responded Feige. "[The Avengers] was the other shot. Right? I mean, this was the third appearance of Hulk and everything that we had and were going for, we put in to Hulk's appearance in Avengers. So, I love that people are saying [positive things about the Hulk in Avenger]

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrants/news/?a=57900>