

In the following video interview with Comic Book Resources, Khary Payton offers an update on the small screen adaptation of Brian Michael Bendis and Michael Oeming's Powers, revealing some disappointing news for fans. It appears that each of the actors cast in the pilot have now moved on to other projects (understandably so) and been released from their contracts by FX. What this means for the long-gestating show remains to be seen. The actor also discusses Young Justice and more. "The thing is that it's so cool. It's SO cool! I love it. I love 'Powers.' I love Brian Bendis and Michael Oeming. Those guys are – I honestly think they just cast me in it so that I'd go buy all their comic books. I have no time for my three-year-old anymore. I'm reading Brian Bendis and putting Michael's picture on my wall. "But they're amazing, and there really is a

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=57583>