

Guardians of the Galaxy director James Gunn has returned to his horror roots in The Belko Experiment. The film, which Gunn wrote and produced, centers on a large group of office workers who are going about an ordinary work day, when a mysterious voice suddenly commands them to start killing each other, or they will be killed themselves. A bloody and violent massacre ensues. The film stars some of Gunn's frequent collaborators, including Michael Rooker and brother Sean Gunn, along with John Gallagher Jr., Tony Goldwyn, Adria Arjona, John C. McGinley, Melonie Diaz, and David Dastmalchian. Check the trailer out below! The Belko Experiment hits theatres on March 17, 2017. It at first seems to be an ordinary morning on the job for a group of Americans working for a not-for-profit in a modern office building in Colombia. After noticing that their Colombian colleagues have not arrived for work, office worker Mike (John Gallagher, Jr.) spots some unfamiliar security guards entering a large hangar nearby.

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/horror/kill-or-be-killed-in-the-red-band-trailer-for-the-james-gunn-penned-the-a147198>