

The new trailer for Kong: Skull Island will be released during tonight's episode of Jimmy Kimmel Live, but in the meantime, we have the first international TV spot to keep us going. While it's sadly not in English, we do get to see some never before seen footage of both the titular monster and some of the supporting cast. The fact that the action is set to "Bad Moon Rising" is obviously just a bonus. It remains to be seen what other surprises the full length trailer will have for us, but chances are that we're going to see some other iconic monsters going to war with King Kong. After all, the giant beast certainly isn't intimidated by the humans who visit his island, hence why he can be seen here staring down Samuel L. Jackson in what is no doubt going to be a pretty damn awesome confrontation. The impressive cast of Kong: Skull Island includes Tom Hiddleston, Samuel L. Jackson, Brie Larson,

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/sci-fi/king-kong-stares-down-samuel-l-jackson-in-international-tv-spot-for-kong-a146846>