

Courtesy of Cleveland, Ohio's Plain Dealer, latest footage from The Avengers' "Germany" shoot, once again captures 'Loki' and 'Captain America' and 'Loki' stunt doubles in combat, now up-close. And in relating news, chatting with The-News-Herald, an "NYP Officer" stuntman vaguely detailed his experience working on the film. While the role evidently involved Loki's alien invaders, the stuntman explains: "The first day, we were driving patrol cars, precision driving, coming up and stopping to where they wanted," says Emmett, a Geneva police officer. "We were responding to an alien invasion," Fike says. "As we got out (of patrol cars)," Emmett says, "the aliens were coming out from the top of the buildings and we were shooting up at them. I think I got two or three," he says with a laugh. Marvel's The Avengers picks up when an unexpected enemy emerges that threatens global safety and security. And Nick Fury, director of the international

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=45320&t=Latest_Set_Video_For_iThe_Avengersi_Feature_More_Of_Captain_America_Taking_On_Loki