

At the Licensing Expo 2011 a couple weeks ago, Coming Soon spotted a promo poster for an upcoming LEGO Star Wars TV special. They now have some details surrounding the special, as well as some details on yet another Star Wars animated series that's in the works.

ComingSoon.net spotted the below art for the television event and, while details were few, was told that the special is likely for late September. Based on the popular video game series, the LEGO TV special is being created in addition to a second, previously announced Star Wars cartoon series. That new series has been given the following official update: Today, George Lucas is hard at work on a second animated series that will complement 'The Clone Wars', taking 'Star Wars' in a completely new and fun direction. Here is the poster that was found at the Expo, which is nearly identical to the cover art of the LEGO

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/BatFreak/news/?a=40364&t=LEGO Star Warsi TV Special Coming This Fall Another Animated IStar Warsi Series In The Works>