

In addition to their awesome Black Manta scoop from earlier today, The Hollywood Reporter has learned that Nicole Kidman is also being eyed to join the cast of Warner Bros.' upcoming underwater superhero adventure Aquaman. She's currently in early talks for the James Wan-directed film, but if she signs on, she'll portray Aquaman's mother and while the report doesn't specify whether it'll be his birth mother or his adoptive mother, considering the film's expected underwater setting, it's more likely than not, she'd be playing Atlanna. Story is developing... So, what do you guys think? Sound off with your thoughts below!
