

Speaking with The Huffington Post, actor Logan Lerman talks about working with director Darren Aronofsky on the anticipated Biblical epic Noah, which is currently shooting. He praises the Black Swan director for how "clear" his vision is for the movie (which is based on Aronofsky's graphic novel adapting the classic Bible story) considering the scale of the story. "[Aronofsky is] Just the best. It's quite remarkable how decisive he is and how clear his vision is. Especially on something on this scale and size. It's foreign for him too, I guess, working with such a big budget and everything, but he's just an actors' dream. Or at least for me. I like his style. He knows what he wants. "I haven't seen the film yet, but I feel like from everything we've worked on so far, he knows how to get a performance out of you. There's also a level of

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/BatFreak/news/?a=68268>