

Henry Cavill is known to take the time to give gifts to the crew of the movies he's involved in. Well, crew member Sherice Griffiths lets us know that he's back at it again, by sharing his gift to the crew for Justice League. This morning, Griffiths posted a photo on Instagram showing a group photo sent by Cavill and a shiny metallic Justice League logo. Cavill even included a note, reading: "It has been quite the battle shooting this movie, but I could imagine no better people to have struggled alongside. Thank you so much for your hard work, tenacity and great humour! See you next time, it has been an absolute pleasure!" Cavill's gifts to his film crews is always a nice tradition. While the photo isn't much of a look at Superman in Justice League, does it still get you guys hyped for his return? Let your thoughts be known in the comments section below.

Nice little crew gift in the

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/justice_league/look-at-the-cool-gifts-henry-cavill-sent-to-the-crew-of-justice-a147957