

Maggie Grace sits down at a roundtable with CBM to talk about her new Sci-Fi Action film "Lockout" and a few new tidbits about "Taken 2" and her love of "Game Of Thrones" Audio Version: (Turn up your volume, we had some audio boosting issues) Transcript: Q: When you saw the script, did you think 'typecasting?' Maggie Grace: laughs I do have a long history of playing imperiled females, I suppose. Dating back to when I was about 17, I think. Q: What was the first one? MG: Oh God...Lost didn't fair so well as far as the health of my character. When I was 16/17, that's how I paid my rent was doing procedural dramas. Being the girl who had tough times on Law and Order, stuff like that. Q: Were you a body ever? MG: Oh no. Come on, dude? laughs I mean, I was a guest star and a recurring. He's like, 'that was your best

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/DarkKnightNews/news/?a=57632>