

The following behind the scenes vid from HBO's second season of Game Of Thrones is brief but aside from Maisie Williams discussing Arya's new scruffy, boyish look we also get a few glimpses at some scenes being shot with the young actress. When last we saw Arya she was taken by Nightswatch recruiter Yoren to protect her against the Lannisters. She begins the long slog to The Wall, but of course nothing ever goes to plan in this show and on the road she gets mixed up some very dangerous things indeed. Making Game of Thrones: Arya's New Look And while we're at it here is a pretty cool fan made trailer for season 2 which looks back over some of the events and characters towards the end of the first season.
