

Thanks to our friends over at Latino Review, we have the following transcription of a revealing new interview with director Marc Webb taken from this year's Comic-Con Annual. Be sure to click on the link for more and stay tuned to CBM on Monday as I'll be bringing you all the details from The Amazing Spider-Man sneak peek taking place in London. You came out with a new poster in December that said "The Untold Story" on it. Is that the untold story you're looking to tell? That's part of the untold story certainly. It's really important for us to be able to communicate that this isn't a remake of Sam Raimi's movie. There's a new territory, there's a new villain, it's a different Peter Parker. Why did you feel Gwen Stacy was the way to go as opposed to Mary Jane? We've seen Mary Jane. I also think that Gwen Stacy is a young
