

By: Mark Julian This was best episode of Young Justice yet. I sound like a broken record it seems but the show just keeps picking up steam after each episode. I was watching this episode and thinking to myself, "This episode is approaching Justice League Unlimited status." But then we got to the end and the "It Was All Just A Dream" classic TV trope. Still, this episode was the best episode yet and this show continues to improve upon itself after every episode. From the opening minute, this episode had my attention. It's not every day that Green Lanterns Hal Jordan and John Stewart, Superman, Captain Atom, Martian Manhunter, Captain Marvel and Batman all bite the bullet in the opening minutes of the show. Now of course I'm not fooled into believing this is going to hold up. Naturally, my first thought was that

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=49429&t=Mark_Julian_Reviews_Young_Justice_Episode_16_Failsafe