

Despite the critical and commercial success of Kick-Ass in 2010, and ongoing rumors that a sequel would be in cinemas by 2012, it's once again looking unlikely that we'll see an adaptation of the second volume of the comic book series any time soon. While creator Mark Millar remains confident over the chances of a sequel, screenwriter Jane Goldman and director Matthew Vaughn seem slightly less interested in returning to make a follow up. In the following interview with IGN Movies, both Millar and Goldman share their thoughts on the possibility of Kick-Ass 2. More Kick-Ass 2: Balls to the Wall Videos Would you like to see Jane Goldman and Matthew Vaughn make Kick-Ass 2 or focus on a sequel to X-Men: First Class? How would you feel about someone else helming the Mark Millar and John Romita Jr comic book? Be sure to share your thoughts in the usual place!

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=39000&t=Mark_Millar_And_Jane_Goldman_Still_Uncertain_Over_Chances_Of_iKick-Ass_2i