

Taking to the Millarworld Forums, prolific comic book writer and creator Mark Millar has shared his thoughts on his recent visit to the set of Kick-Ass 2 (which is currently being shot in London). While his thoughts on what he's so far seen of the movie are particularly interesting, even more noteworthy is the news that three of his movies are currently being prepped for production in Spring 2013, with official announcements expected to hit over the next couple of weeks. Check out Millar's comments below, and be sure to click on the link at the bottom of the page to read his comments in full. Shot down to England last week for some time on the Kick-Ass 2 set. Three of the days were press interviews, all embargoed until a few weeks before release, but the rest was just sitting around and drinking tea while superheroes beat the shit out of

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=69061>