

The much anticipated movie adaption of Green Lantern will be released this Friday, and actor Mark Strong was recently interviewed by Crave where he talked a little bit about the movies after credit scene. Warning: This Contains Spoilers!!!!!!! Said Strong of the after credit scene: "That was shot speculatively, I think. There was an idea that there would be an introduction of the idea that the yellow ring corrupts him. Perhaps it was felt in the body of the film, it wasn't the right time to introduce it. So actually the thing to do is introduce everybody to the mythology and the story, and then give them that little taste. Certainly the fanboys who know about it will be excited, and anybody else, at least they have an opportunity of understanding where it could go from here." The Sinestro Corps logo was teased in the trailer so its pretty safe to assume that if there
