

While Planet of the Apes directed by Tim Burton was a box office success, many fans and critics felt that overall, it was a disappointing remake. Well, Mark Wahlberg, who had the leading role in the film, feels the same way. Talking to MTV, he said that the whole thing was rushed, and that the film was not ready to be released: Get More: Movie Trailers, Movies Blog If he saw the Rupert Wyatt-directed film Rise of the Planet of the Apes, he said: "I haven't seen it yet, but I heard it was pretty damn good. Well, ours wasn't. It is what it is. Ours wasn't." "They didn't have the script right. They had a release date before he had shot a foot of film. They were pushing him and pushing him in the wrong direction. You have got to let Tim do his thing." But, according to Wahlberg, that was the best time he

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/Wolvie09/news/?a=52023&t=Mark_Wahlberg_On_The_Failure_Of_Tim_Burtons_PLANET_OF_THE_APES