

Speaking to Fox-Latino, Marvel Editor-In-Chief Axel Alonso shared the following when discussing Marvel's decision making surrounding the new bi-racial Ultimate Spider-Man.

Question: Four months and five issues later, how has the new Spider-Man been received?

ALONSO: "People have clearly embraced Miles the way they embraced Peter Parker. They are getting the point and they are getting him, so far so good." Question: I'm sure there were many who did not think the change was so nice. ALONSO: "Whenever you do anything in comics you are going to hear from the fans because they are passionate, no matter what it is, but add a social or political context to what you do and you are going to hear it even more. We heard some negative and some positive but ultimately people vote with their wallet. We have not seen a lack of interest in the book. It is the flagship of the Ultimate line and sales

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=52806&t=Marvel E-I-C Axel Alonso Answers Do You See The ULTIMATE SPIDER-MAN Making It To The Big Screen