

Earlier today, Marvel Entertainment & FX Networks officially announced a February 2017 premiere date for their eagerly awaited upcoming joint-collaboration Legion. The series, which is connected to the X-Men film series, stars Dan Stevens (Beauty and the Beast) as David Haller, the mutant son of Professor Charles Xavier, and features a supporting cast consisting of Rachel Keller (Fargo), Jean Smart (The Accountant), Aubrey Plaza (Parks and Recreation), Jeremie Harris (A Walk Among the Tombstones), Amber Midthunder (Hell or High Water), Katie Aselton (The League), Bill Irwin (Interstellar), and Jemaine Clement (What We Do In The Shadows). Fargo creator Noah Hawley will serve as showrunner and will co-produce alongside Lauren Shulder Donner, Bryan Singer, Simon Kinberg, & Jeph Loeb. Check out the latest reality-bending preview, which teases the larger threat David Haller will face, below:

Legion follows the story of David Haller, a troubled young man who may be more than human. Since he was a teenager, David has struggled with mental illness. Diagnosed as schizophrenic, David
