

Captain America: Civil War and Doctor Strange were hits with critics and moviegoers alike, and that's reflected in the number of nominations they've received at this year's Critics Choice Awards. Deadpool has also done well, but what about the DC Films Universe? Well, Batman v Superman: Dawn of Justice and Suicide Squad have only one each compared to the nine in total scored by the two Marvel Studios mentioned above. However, perhaps the biggest loser is X-Men: Apocalypse. That movie has none! Doctor Strange leads the way with six nominations, and those are Best Hair & Makeup, Best Visual Effects, Best Action Movie, Best Actor in an Action Movie - Benedict Cumberbatch, Best Actress in an Action Movie - Tilda Swinton, and Best Sci-Fi/Horror Movie. That's an extremely impressive list! Captain America: Civil War meanwhile is up for Best Action Movie, Best Actor in an Action Movie – Chris Evans, and Best Actress in an Action Movie - Scarlett Johansson. Deadpool has four nods,

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/captain_america/captain_america_civil_war/marvel-overshadows-the-dc-films-a147212