

With Earth's Mightiest Heroes (and the Guardians of the Galaxy) set to take on Thanos in Avengers: Infinity War, it should come as no surprise to learn that aliens will be making an appearance in the highly anticipated release. What race they will be remains to be seen, but regardless of whether they visit Earth or the action takes place in outer space, we now know they'll somehow factor into the film. How? Well, Project Casting has put out a notice for alien extras along with the following description: &quot;Aliens: We are now taking submissions to be considered for a fun background role on this upcoming movie. Looking for men and women, all ethnicities, who appear 18 – 50's, who are TALL with a SLENDER or athletic build. MUST be comfortable being PAINTED (including on your face & any exposed body parts). Also looking for people willing to have prosthetics applied to their face, in addition to being painted. Bumps will be provided
