

In the below Tweet, my twitter amigo Ryan Penagos jokingly revealed that his e-mail folder for The Avengers has reached critical mass but notice the two blurred out subfolders? Apparently Marvel has something in the works they aren't quite ready to share with the rest of the world just yet. We know Marvel is releasing a second 2014 film alongside the Captain America sequel and maybe one of the blurred out films below is that very movie. Photo: My folder for emails about @Marvel's The @Avengers at work has reached a critical point. tumblr.co/ZUVoayJsyOjq— Ryan Penagos (@Agent_M) April 18, 2012 My best guess is that we can expect something to be officially announced after The Avengers has been in theaters for a couple of weeks. Marvel Studios' President of Production Kevin Feige has previously stated that out of Ant-Man, Runaways, The Inhumans and Guardians of the Galaxy, "Two of those four

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=58129>