

"The Mark Wahlberg T4 rumor is just a rumor. Mark and I are talking about another film project." So let speculation about one project end, and speculation about another project begin. So far the facts are that sales of toys by Hasbro were down for the last Transformers film and the shareholders are speculating that was due to the fact that there were no new Autobots introduced in the film. Besides this point, it's rumored that the next film will feature a new female lead and that while Shia LaBeuf will not be returning a few supporting actors from the trilogy COULD return in some capacity.
