

Get More: Movie Trailers, Movies Blog "Michael's going to direct it and it will be in the summer of 2014," Bonaventura confirmed in an interview with MTV News. "He's a cool customer, he's excited and I think the challenge there is that we are really are going to do a reboot and what that's going to be we don't even know yet." As for those casting rumors about Jason Statham, he said: "No, it's so silly. We've got to get a story first." "It's a hybrid," added the producer when talk turned to just how much of a reboot the movie really is. "I'm not involved with Spider-Man, but what I perceive Spider-Man to be is a redoing of the whole thing. It's [Transformers] not. It's an evolution, there's still continuity that's going on and yet there will be a lot of new cast and whether there will be anyone from the old

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=54656&t=Michael_Bay_To_Helm_TRANSFORMERS_4_Will_Reboot_The_Franchise