

Here's Michael's answers to our X-Pert questions: How did you find your "dark side" in playing this role? There's a dark side in everybody. You just have to dig deep and get involved in it. Any time you get a role, you realize three main characteristics of that person, and then you just have to inflate them in yourself if they're not there or just use them if they are already there. Does the fact that the character you play has a very established future already as a super villain help or hinder the way you portrayed him? Neither, really. I got all my source material from the comic books. What was the hardest part of playing Magneto? Trying to bend metal when obviously I can't do that. After playing Magneto, do you feel some type of connection with the character? I absolutely feel a connection. I think the interesting thing about Magneto is he does magnify the human

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/SaveXMEN/news/?a=37505&t=Michael_Fassbender_Magneto_and_James_McAvoy_Xavier_Answers_Our_X-PERT_Questions