

TV Line caught up with Michael Rosenbaum to talk about his new show Braking In. In the interview he was asked about his return to Smallville. "I have to say, that was the most amazing time, going back. There were people who worked on that crew that aren't even working on the show anymore that came to see me. It was like a family I hadn't seen in a while. People don't know this, but I got nervous. I was really nervous. To jump back into that role and start quoting Sun Tzu, and I'm looking at Tom...? It felt so surreal. I was going, 'Can I do this?' And finally you just do it! And believe it or not I'm actually glad I shaved my head all those years, because the bald cap [used in the series finale] is a bitch! It took like 2-1/2 hours to get on, and it

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JakeLester/news/?a=35604&t=Michael\_Rosenbaum\_Discusses\_Jumping\_Back\_In\_To\_Smallville