

Talking to The Province (via Superman: Man of Steel (2013)) Michael Shannon was quizzed on how his time working on Man of Steel has been going, although the actor was as careful as ever not to give too much away. "Man of Steel? It's about Superman, I can tell you that. It's pretty hush-hush, it's a reboot going back to the origins of Superman. We started doing preparations in the spring, learning stunts and stuff, and we started shooting towards the end of July. We were in Illinois for a couple of months then we wound up here in Vancouver." "Oh, he's a prince," the actor said when talk turned to director Zack Snyder. "One of the sweetest people I've ever met in this business. Very warm-hearted individual and very creative. He blends in, he likes to feel, to be one of the guys, one of the crew, but he's able to

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=50686&t=Michael_Shannon_Talks_MAN_OF_STEEL_Story_CGI_Suits_Flying_And_Director_Zack_Snyder