

Source: ComingSoon.net Mickey Rourke has revealed that it will take a certain amount of "persuasion" to get him to return for Sin City. Rourke specifically stated, "It depends," he smiled, "It depends on how bad they want me. You feel me?" A portion of Rourke's reluctance has to do with the amount of makeup and prosthetics it required for him to have the right look for Marv. "I did [like the character]," he reiterated today, "but I'm claustrophobic, so the the hours of makeup -- You have to keep it on for about 13 or 14 hours a day. It's latex and glue and that stuff that gets my eyes all red... I remember I picked up some chick at a bar in Texas one night and invited her to the set to have lunch at the lunch break," he grinned. "I couldn't take the s--t off. F--k it, I never saw her again!" Well,

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=49119&t=emMickey_Rourkeem_on_emSin_City_2em