

Firstly, it's known that Thor actor Stellan Skarsgård will be reprising his 'Dr. Erik Selvig' role in Joss Whedon's crown jewel The Avengers, although what's unknown is where or how the role will fit in the much-reserved screen time. Well, inside the viral marketing site promoting S.H.I.E.L.D.'s duty in film, a note may indicate at least who from The Avengers' roster he'll share screen time or have affiliation with. The note reads: Doctor Erik Selvig is currently a sitting professor at Culver University in New York, where he has conducted research in astrophysics for over a decade. NOTE: Selvig was a known associate of Dr. BRUCE BANNER. Therefore, we can assume Skarsgård will be affiliated with the Hulk's better half, Dr Bruce Banner, play by actor Mark Ruffalo. Another interesting tidbit to that: while Dr. Selvig is a professor at Culver University, in Marvel's Cinematic Universe, it's also where Banner worked as

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=35172&t=Mild_Potential_Spoilers_For_iThe_Avengersj_Joss_Whedon_At_A_Struggle_With_Stunts