

Marvel and Netflix's The Defenders continues shooting in New York, and following that first pretty standard set snap from last night, Coming Soon have provided us with some much more revealing pics. This batch of images give us a much better look at Kryten Ritter as a bloody Jessica Jones (this gal gets into a LOT of scraps) staring down the barrel of Misty Knight's (Simone Missick) gun. We don't have any other details on the scene in question, and it remains to be seen how and why these characters crossed paths, but something tells me there's going to be some mutual respect there by the time they sort things out. The Defenders brings together some of Marvel's finest street-level heroes next year. Several supporting characters from previous Netflix shows have been confirmed to appear.

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/tv/marvel/defenders/misty-knight-and-jessica-jones-face-off-in-these-latest-a146440>