

Over the past year or so, I've been bringing you random updates on the film Monster Brawl, a film that places some of history's most iconic monsters and places them in a tournament to see who is the biggest bad-ass of them all. The film has had me intrigued from the get-go, which is why I continue (albeit lazily) to bring you updates on the film, and being that I am a horror film junkie, this had my name written all over it. Here is a synopsis of the film from the official site: Set in the tradition of a Per-Per-View main event, comes a grotesque and hilarious fight to the death featuring a cast of eight classic combatants in all. Along with their colorful managers, these Monsters compete in visceral bloody combat in the ring to determine the most powerful monster of all time. The film has an interesting cast as well,

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/geekboymovienews/news/?a=44748&t=iMonster_Brawli_Trailer_Comes_in_Swingin