

While promoting his return to Fox with his new television show "Touch" the actor most famous for playing badass CTU agent Jack Bauer is informing the public of the film adaptation that will begin filming in the middle of April. Interestingly enough when Kiefer was asked during a recent interview if it would be difficult getting back in to the role of Jack after the long layoff he sounded less than confident. He tells assignmentx.com, "Yeah, I'll be scared to death the first couple days, but in all fairness, for me, that's like going home." While talking to Jimmy Kimmel he asked about the movie as well. He seems quite happy to be able to add a few saucy words to he repertoire. And don't miss his great story about Jerry O'Connell. His Stand By Me cast member that ditched his babysitter for a fair, and the groovy food he consumed that
