

Speaking with Shock Til You Drop/Coming Soon, acclaimed director Steven Spielberg once again talks about development on Jurassic Park IV, which he will produce and Joe Johnston will direct. Spielberg says that the film is currently on the schedule, despite his busy promoting War Horse and Adventures Of Tintin while shooting the biopic Lincoln. He's also asked if the film will restart the franchise as previously rumored, saying that it's 'another boring secret'. On the current status of Jurassic Park IV... I haven't been active in the last year because I've been so busy obviously on 'War Horse,' 'Tintin' and now I'm currently shooting 'Lincoln,' but right now, it's on the schedule to bring out another 'Jurassic Park. On whether or not the film will be a reboot... It's just another boring secret. chuckles Do you think a fourth Jurassic Park film should be made, or should the original trilogy be left alone? If

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/BatFreak/news/?a=51070&t=More From Steven Spielberg On JURASSIC PARK IV