

With the cameras reportedly set to roll on the location tomorrow, production prep for Marvel Studios' The Avengers, transforming East Ninth Street into New York City's famed 42nd Street, is shaping up nicely. With the majority of the images courtesy of local tweeter, MaggieDiane, check them out below. And also take a gander at the captions for preparation specs. NYPD Police vehicles brought to the set! Another view of NYPD Police vehicles brought to the set NYC Gateway District sign installed. Signage for NYC's Grand Central 42 St. Subway Station. Another view for signage of NYC's Grand Central 42 St. Subway Station. Aerial View. More NYC cars brought in. Tons of more NYC props brought in. View of NYC benches installed. Workers building the lighting rig. More wreckage; installed streetlight testing. Another view of more wreckage. Wide-shot of

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=44335&t=More\_Images\_From\_iThe\_Avengers\_iCleveland\_Set\_Showcase\_Filming\_Prep\_Progress