

"I think they're practicing jumps pre-shooting," said Jetport Director Howie Franklin. "They did some practices yesterday too. They'll keep an eye on things as they go along, because when the winds are higher than 18 or 20 knots, they don't like to jump." "The exciting thing for me this time is that the Oak Island beach will be in the movie," he said. "Just like most people around here, we like the excitement of it." Gary Sheppard, of Oak Island, said he doesn't know much about the "Iron Man" franchise, but wouldn't mind seeing some stunts. "I heard they're supposed to be out here filming stunts in the air for about two weeks, but none of us know any other specifics, they won't tell anyone," he said. "I'm here everyday already, so if something's going on, I'll check it out."- Star News Images Courtesy of StarNewsOnline (Click Images to Enlarge) Iron Man 3
