

One of the perks that come from Chris Evans making the promotional rounds for Captain America: The First Avenger is that we are hearing more than we have in months concerning The Avengers. This time we find him talking about being halfway through filming, working with so many actors, Joss Whedon and Hemsworth as Thor. What it's been like working on The Avengers so far... It's going great! It's going really well. Every one's fantastic. We're still... I was going to say it's still early but it's not early. We're almost halfway through but it's going so well. I didn't know what to expect. I've never worked on a film with so many experienced and accomplished actors and I didn't know how Joss, our director was going to handle it. It's a tall order, not only bringing all these comic book characters together but these people, these actors. He's just been, he's unbelievable. I think

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GulfCoastAvengers/news/?a=42337&t=Much_More_Form_Chris_Evans_On_iThe_Avengersi