

MSN has gotten a hold of another clip from the upcoming horror movie The Thing. The clip features growing suspicion of just who they can trust and who they can't trust. To follow up we get to hear the ever so reassuring sound of a window breaking with one of the characters stating the obvious by saying "They're inside." Video: 'The Thing' movie clip Antarctica: an extraordinary continent of awesome beauty. It is also home to an isolated outpost where a discovery full of scientific possibility becomes a mission of survival when an alien is unearthed by a crew of international scientists. The shape-shifting creature, accidentally unleashed at this marooned colony, has the ability to turn itself into a perfect replica of any living being. It can look just like you or me, but inside, it remains inhuman. In the thriller The Thing, paranoia spreads like an epidemic among a group of researchers

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JakeLester/news/?a=47371&t=New_Clip_From_The_Thing