

The following is from this month's Make-Up Artist magazine Linda Dowds - Head of the Make-up Department - "We had a lot of men and just two women, including Mary, our leading lady. A lot of those men also had a European sensibility to them, so we knew we were going to be dealing with a lot of facial hair...we wanted them to be individuals, but there still had to be stuff going on that indicated that they were at this station, so we went through the characters and tried to mix up the facial hair a little bit so not everybody had a beard but everybody had some measure of facial hair. We had to create a little chart to keep track of everybody." "With our women, Mary is an attractive girl and there was nothing to say that she couldn't look like that, but a little could go a long way. We
