

Beauty and the Beast is shaping up to be one of next year's most unique blockbusters, and with a cast made up of names like Dan Stevens, Emma Watson, and Luke Evans, there's a lot to look forward to here even if fairy tales aren't really your thing. Thanks to Entertainment Weekly, we have a magazine cover and fresh batch of images which offer up our best look yet at what's to come in the film. As well as a new look at the actors listed above in their respective roles, we also get to see Cogsworth (Ian McKellen), Mrs. Potts (Emma Thompson), Lumière (Ewan McGregor), and Plumette (Gugu Mbatha-Raw). Josh Gad as Le Fou can also be seen alongside Evans' Gaston, while Kevin Kline as Maurice is a spot on bit of casting. It's Belle and the Beast who definitely stand out as the highlights though. What do you guys think of this new look at Beauty and the Beast? As always, let us know

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/fantasy/new-look-at-disneys-live-action-beauty-and-the-beast-on-ew-cover-and-a146475>