

Goddard approached Warner Home Video about re-releasing the MASTERS OF THE UNIVERSE film on DVD for it's 25th anniversary including all the new special features he and Lay had begun working on. Even Bryan Singer (Director, X-MEN, USUAL SUSPECTS) agreed to come onboard to moderate an all new commentary track with Goddard and Frank Langella (Skeletor). After months of communication and positive response from the studio, Goddard was told that they would not move forward with their plan to re-issue the film at the moment. Both Lay and Goddard were immensely disappointed since they had begun compiling and creating a plethora of all new content which would have made this reissue a very special DVD for fans of the film and the Masters franchise. Here's a short sample of the new documentary that was meant to be the centerpiece of the new DVD reissue of the film. If the new anniversary DVD won't
