

The official Power Rangers website has debuted a special sneak peek preview at their brand new official fansite, RangerNation, with the reveals of three spectacular new movie toys, including close-ups of the Power Morpher, Power Coins, and Power Sword. However, the biggest reveal of the bunch is a first look at the Tyrannosaurus Dinozord, which will be utilized in the movie by Jason the Red Ranger, played by newcomer Dacre Montgomery. The toy zord has a fairly simple design & color scheme, and outside of being based on the same dinosaur, doesn't really share too many similarities with the classic zord seen in the original '90s series. On another note, it's fairly likely the zord seen in the movie will be quite a bit different as the character posters showed the massive beast sporting a lot more silver than what the itoy would have you believe. Check out the toys below: Saban's Power Rangers follows five ordinary high school kids who must become

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/action/new-power-rangers-movie-toys-reveal-the-power-morpher-power-coins-a146351>