

This new teaser for Stranger Things season 2 doesn't actually contain any footage from the show (they've only begin shooting, after all), but it does feature veteran broadcast journalist Brenda Wood reporting on Barb's disappearance, as well as Eleven's little trip to the store to pick up some eggos. Also, Funko fans will be very happy to hear that the first wave of Stranger Things POPs are set to be released early next year, and are available for pre-order now.

The Duffer Brothers spoke to EW a while ago about what fans can expect from season 2. They didn't give too much away, but did confirm that the story will once again focus on the same batch of characters - however, they stop just short of revealing whether Eleven (who "died" in the season finale) will also be back. Are you guys excited for another season of Stranger Things? Sound off below.

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/other/new-promo-for-netflixs-stranger-things-season-2-released-plus-first-wave-of-a146434>